Trek to Everest Base Camp Kathmandu & Khumbu Region, Nepal

SWS Mountain Guides provides the adventure of a lifetime with a portered and teahouse trip for backpackers and climbers a like. Our trek starts with a morning flight into Lukla at 9,200 ft. before descending down the forested trails to Phakding, our first teahouse at 8,500 ft. As the trail ascends along the ridges and valleys of the Khumbu region the environment quickly changes to conifer forests and high alpine terrain. After eight full days of hiking we reach Gorak Shep and a short hike to Everest base camp. Next day's optional side hike to Kala Pataar at over 18,000 feet gives you the most spectacular view in the Everest Region without having to climb Everest itself! "I couldn't be more excited about this trek." SWS Mountain Guide James Brown. "This is one of the most exciting regions of the world if you love the mountains. This trip allows an awesome sampling of big peaks and an opportunity of emergence in Nepal and Sherpa culture." It is a perfect starting point for people interested in climbing or trekking the Himalaya in the future. After our successful trek to Everest Base Camp we return via the same route to Lukla for our flights back to the modern world and Kathmandu.

What to Expect: A typical day in the Khumbu may be spent hiking within view of the highest mountains in the world. Ama Dablam, Pumori, Nuptse, and Everest are just a few of the big peaks along the way. On rest days we take it easy with an opportunity to visit local Buddhist monasteries, barter in the trader's markets, or spend a relaxed evening in the teahouses learning about the Nepali people. Just a note, we are traveling, trekking, and climbing in a Nepal, and while SWS Mountain Guides makes the best possible plans and tries to account for all possibilities, this is adventure travel and part of the fun and adventure is being flexible, and making changes to the itinerary as needed to account for local customs, culture, holiday and festivals. If you keep this in mind you will have an exciting and unique, adventure in the mountains of Nepal.
